

Why can't I use my financial tracker to consolidate my financial information?

Website Support

In the current digital environment, multi-factor authentication (MFA) has become a necessary and common practice among financial institutions who support online account access. In accordance with best practices, Security Benefit has also implemented MFA to maintain a high-level of online safety for your accounts. Because of the heightened security, MFA prevents financial data trackers from accessing your account. We suggest you contact your financial tracker software company to inquire how they recommend gathering account data from financial institutions who support MFA.
